While Lem Little was digging fish bait near his home a few days ago he uncovered three half gallon fruit jars containing gold and silver coins. When counted, Little found himself $600 to the good in good, old United States money. Little's farm is one mile north of Waldron. The gold coins will have to be turned over to the government, for which he will receive currency. The farm on which the money was unearthed was once the home of Wm. B. Turman, deceased, who had resided there many years and was president of a bank here.

We didn't learn whether Lem found any worms and continued to the creek to catch fish.

Gene Davidson deposes and affirms that he has no fishing lake, tourist camp, road house or any other form of recreation on his farm south of town, road signs to the contrary notwithstanding. Dire vengeance is threatened to the ignoble sign writers.
